LAND GRANT ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

David Tewksbury, Executive Associate Dean of Social and Behavioral Sciences and Area Centers, College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

As a land-grant institution, the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign has a responsibility to acknowledge the historical context in which it exists. In order to remind ourselves and our community, we will begin this event with the following statement. We are currently on the lands of the Peoria, Kaskaskia, Piankashaw, Wea, Miami, Mascoutin, Odawa, Sauk, Mesquaki, Kickapoo, Potawatomi, Ojibwe, and Chickasaw Nations. It is necessary for us to acknowledge these Native Nations and for us to work with them as we move forward as an institution. Over the next 150 years, we will be a vibrant community inclusive of all our differences, with Native peoples at the core of our efforts.

ACADEMIC DRESS

Academic dress, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Subsequently, the material of the gown and lining, and the shape of the hood, represented the economic and social, as well as academic status of the wearer.

In the United States, the great majority of the academic costumes now worn are in accordance with the general provisions of the Intercollegiate Code of 1895, which was revised in 1932 and again in 1960. Under this code, the bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves, the master's gown has oblong sleeves with an arc at the bottom, and the doctor's gown has bell-shaped sleeves. All gowns are black, although the adoption of colored gowns by individual institutions in the United States is becoming more prevalent.

The bachelor's and master's gowns are untrimmed. The doctor's gown is faced down the front with velvet and has three bars of velvet across the sleeves. The facing and bars may be black or may be the color of the subject to which the degree pertains. The bachelor's gown is worn closed; the master's and doctor's gowns may be worn open or closed. Women may wear white collars with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn.

Hoods are also black. The bachelor's hood is 3 feet in length, the master's is 3 ½ feet, and the doctor's is 4 feet. Hoods are lined with the official color or colors of the college or university conferring the degree. At the University of Illinois, the lining is orange and blue. The colored velvet border of the hood, which is 2 inches, 3 inches, and 5 inches wide for the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degree respectively, identifies the faculty or field of study to which the degree pertains.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States. Usually, all tassels are black, but where the graduating seniors do not wear hoods, as at the University of Illinois, the color of the cap tassel indicates the department of study. At the University of Illinois, candidates for degrees wear tassels on the right front quadrant of their caps before degrees are conferred, and move them to the left front quadrant after degrees are conferred. Caps are considered a part of the costume and are customarily removed only during an invocation or benediction, and then by men only.

For all academic purposes, including trimmings of doctor's gowns, edging of hoods, tassels of caps, and linings of banners, there are different colors associated with the different disciplines. The color for Liberal Arts & Sciences is white.

Caps and gowns were worn for the first time at the University of Illinois Commencement ceremony of 1897. In the early 1900s the Commencement procession marched up Burrill Avenue to the old Armory. After diplomas were received, the procession marched back to the lawn south of Green Street. The seniors sang the State song and "Auld Lang Syne" before they said good-bye to each other and the campus.

ALUMNI SPEAKER

Phyllis Gardner, MD, Professor of Medicine/Clinical Pharmacology, Stanford University

Dr. Gardner is an expert in medicine, pharmacology and drug delivery systems, and corporate investing and governance. She recently gained national media attention for being an early skeptic of Elizabeth Holmes and Theranos, the now-defunct blood-testing company. She holds a BS in biology from the University of Illinois, graduating with Bronze Tablet and Phi Beta Kappa honors, and an MD from Harvard Medical School, graduating as Alpha Omega Alpha. A Professor in the School of Medicine at Stanford University, Gardner's research centers on cardiac arrhythmias, ion channel biophysics, cell biology, cystic fibrosis pathogenesis, gene therapy and diagnosis. She is the author of 76 publications and a textbook of Pharmacology. Her clinical work concentrated on medicine and cardiology, the latter in cardiac arrhythmia, heart failure and cardiac transplantation.

Dr. Gardner trained in internal medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital, followed by a Chief Residency at Stanford University Medical Center. She completed research fellowships in the departments of Pharmacology at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University and University College, London, UK. She has held several positions at Stanford since she began there in 1984, including Senior Associate Dean for Education and Student Affairs. She took a leave of absence from Stanford, from 1994 to 1998, to work at ALZA Corporation as a Principal Scientist, Vice President of Research and as Head of ALZA Technology Institute. From 1999 until 2015, she was an adjunct partner and then partner at Essex Woodlands Health Ventures, a venture capital firm dedicated to healthcare investment investing. Dr. Gardner has received numerous national awards and honors and serves on the board of directors of several public companies including MiMedx, CohBar, and Firebrick Pharma, as well as the Harvard Medical School Board of Fellows and Advisory Council on Education. She is an advisor to the investment firms Kyto and Avestria, as well as several private companies including Atonarp and Change Healthcare. She is a member of the CPRIT (Cancer Program for Research and Innovation of Texas) as a reviewer of small cancer-oriented biotechnology businesses in Texas or relocating to Texas. We are excited to welcome Dr. Gardner back to campus.
